

FreeMove Central Report

One report. Total control

A clear understanding of your mobile fleet is an important step towards gaining proactive control over your costs. However for many multinational companies, it's not always easy to get a consolidated view from one country or business division to the next.

The FreeMove alliance combines the expertise of four leading operators, each with a sound understanding of local markets, to offer a one-stop solution to monitoring mobile spend and usage patterns more efficiently.

Because one size never fits all, the FreeMove Central Report offers different packages to suit the size and complexity of your organisation, as well as full support to help you integrate information into your corporate enterprise resource planning system.

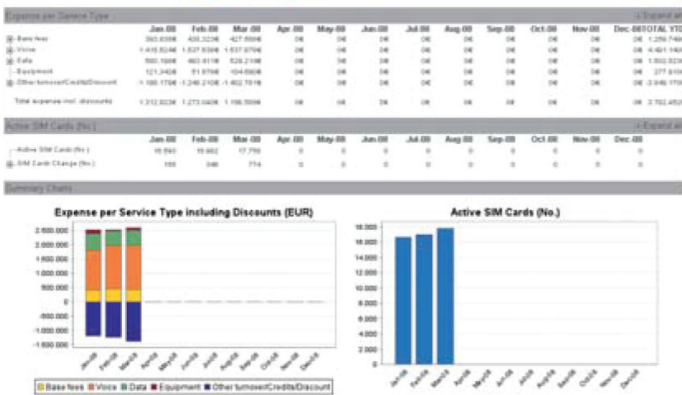

Increase efficiency with best in class reporting and analysis.

What is FreeMove Central Report?

FreeMove Central Report is a secure, web-based application that enables you to monitor your active SIMs and mobile spending right across your key European countries.

With its easy-to-use interface you simply select the information you need.

Clear information	At-a-glance spend and usage patterns for domestic, international and roaming calls and data
Increased detail	Detailed analysis down to individual calls and SIMs, including call type, time period and cost and discount types
Monthly reporting	Reports are itemised based on a monthly production cycle, but you can go online to view them whenever you like
Flexible views	Monitor mobile spend by geographical region, company entity, and company organisation (such as cost centres)
Drill down capabilities	Interactive features to generate graphs for key data, drill down into deeper analysis and perform more customised searches
Multiple users	Add multiple users with different levels of access permission
Customisable packages	Manage reports specific to your local billing requirements (including integration of mobile bills from other countries or operators), export data in different formats and integrate reports with your corporate systems such as ERP

What does this mean for you?

FreeMove Central Report tells you everything you need to know about how, when and where your business phones are used, in a click.

Transparent: clear and consolidated spend and usage data for better cost management

Flexible: from a standard package to premium solutions

Secure: tailored access levels for different members of your team

Dynamic: perform and store your own reports and analysis

Customisable: adapts easily to your specific requirements and integrates easily into your corporate systems.

Set-up is simple, and once you're up and running FreeMove Business Support remains on hand to help you use all of the features, activate new countries and configure additional users.
