

FreeMove International Connect

Connect your people for less

Mobile communication is essential to modern business. Whether people are calling around the corner, internationally, or when they're travelling abroad, it's a vital business tool. But until now it's been difficult to get better value for international and roaming calls made within your organisation. Call charges can be unattractive and unpredictable, making your costs higher than they need to be and difficult to manage. Your people sometimes avoid making vital calls because of worries about the cost – but if they're not communicating, they're not being as productive as they could be.

FreeMove International Connect helps change this. It works by joining together your national mobile fleets in Europe into an integrated, pan-European Closed User Group (CUG), which means we can deliver tailored pricing for international and roaming calls made between your organisation's FreeMove mobile phones. In many cases, FreeMove InternationalConnect can even reduce the cost of making international mobile or roaming calls to selected fixed line numbers, such as switchboards or helpdesks.

It's simple, straightforward and just what a multinational customer needs to make mobility an even more powerful and cost-effective business tool.

Meeting the needs of today's international businesses

FreeMove International Connect has three main components:

1. Different types of call

FreeMove International Connect can deliver tailored prices for mobile roaming calls (calls made while a user is abroad) made to another number included within your FreeMove International Connect CUG. But it doesn't stop there. FreeMove International Connect can also provide a tailored rate for international calls made between mobiles within your organisation. You can often include some fixed-line numbers like main switchboards or helpdesk numbers into the FreeMove International Connect CUG. International mobile or roaming calls to these frequently called fixed numbers can then receive a tailored price.

2. Global reach and network independence

Your users don't just travel in Europe or only connect to certain mobile networks when they're abroad. With FreeMove International Connect, if your users call a number included within your CUG, they can receive a tailored price for the call wherever they happen to be in the world. The service is network independent, which means you get the same price regardless of the network your user is connected to. This means you always get the best price and your users are free to get on with business, without worrying about which network they're using.

3. The countries you do business in

FreeMove International Connect can be deployed for FreeMove users based in the largest European economies including the UK, France, Belgium, Switzerland, Germany, and Italy. As an additional immediate benefit, FreeMove International Connect can provide tailored rates for calls from users in your CUG to specified FreeMove mobiles in a group of 'associate' countries. These can include users in Austria, Hungary and the Czech Republic.

- Tailored pricing for calls within your organisation, while roaming and to specified numbers
- Available in most countries throughout Europe
- Completely network independent

Going further to include more of your users

You get maximum benefit from FreeMove International Connect when you have the maximum number of users in the scheme, wherever they are in Europe. That's why we plan to expand FreeMove International Connect to provide the full benefit of the service to FreeMove users in the Netherlands, Austria, Hungary, the Czech Republic, Romania, Slovakia, Poland and Spain. Your FreeMove Account Manager will be able to tell you more about our roll-out plans for each country.

Bringing everything together

We know that multinational customers demand more than just great intra-company call prices. They need world-class support and information as standard – FreeMove delivers here too. Our Global Account Management and Bid Management help multi-national customers streamline their procurement of national and international mobile services. This saves time and money, enables international standards to be implemented and means customers can leverage their international scale. We can also provide consolidated reporting information through our Central Report service that provides detailed usage and billing information. FreeMove's commitment to market leading quality can be seen in our Service Performance Indicators. These let you see at a glance what you can expect from each operator within the FreeMove alliance in terms of quality targets and service availability. Put it all together and you've got a compelling case for FreeMove.
